Drum up support

The beat could be heard all the way from Hammersmith Town Hall to Mayfair. Five hundred drumming enthusiasts, including Sir Dominic Cadbury, Ben Elliot, Laura Parker Bowles and Clementine Hambro, turned up to interior designer Chloe Hill's second event to raise money for charity through the power of African rhythm. This inspired, pulsating evening raised more than £12,000 for St Mungo's and Colon Cancer Concern. Drinks aplenty were consumed and the performers conjured up a very exotic atmosphere. And the reward for those who stayed till sunrise? Being swept out with the empties.
